Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Product Support Specialist (Future Opportunities) role at Jobber. I live in Edmonton and want to support small home service businesses through clear chat, phone, and email help. My Best Buy work is high-volume customer support: I diagnose issues by asking good questions, explain solutions calmly, document accurately, and escalate with complete details when needed.

How I would contribute on the Customer Success team:

- Respond across live chat, phone, and email with a friendly, concise tone
- Troubleshoot product and workflow questions, then fill knowledge gaps quickly
- Capture clean feedback and FAQs so product and technical teams get useful signal
- Show up reliably for teammates and customers in a fast-changing environment

I do not yet have formal contact-centre tenure, and I bring daily high-volume service, account accuracy, and composure under pressure. I am open to the Monday to Friday shift options listed in the posting, including later MT windows, and I am motivated by practical support work that helps entrepreneurs keep their businesses running. Resume attached; happy to complete the Willo audio step and discuss Edmonton hub collaboration.

Best regards,

Lillian Schule Zech
