Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Advisor, Marketing Operations role at EPCOR (Edmonton, temporary up to 11 months). I live in south Edmonton and can work on-site. At Lumin Marketing Group I own hands-on marketing for 2 active SMB accounts: paid and organic campaigns, website and landing-page updates, email/SMS nurture, stakeholder reporting, and SOPs so deliverables stay on time.

How I would support Encor marketing operations:

- Ship practical digital work: Google Ads and Meta tests, web/landing updates, and clear campaign reporting against targets
- Write customer-facing and internal content that stays on-brand and easy for Contact Centre and partner teams to use
- Keep marketing ops tidy: track deliverables and vendor handoffs, document processes, and flag budget or timeline risks early
- Use Claude and Claude Code for research and drafts with human review before publish, so the team spends less time on grunt work

I am honest that I do not hold a university degree and that Alberta electricity retail / Encor product depth is still growing versus EPCOR's posted preference. What transfers is digital campaign execution, customer communication under pressure from Audi Southgate Fixed Ops, and ownership of multi-stakeholder marketing delivery. The posted starting wage of $49.44/hr clears my CAD $60,000 floor. Resume attached.

Best regards,

Dylan Michael
