Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Dealer Performance Specialist (Western Canada) role at Audi RED (CAD $70k to $85k posted). I live in Edmonton and work on MST. I previously served as Service Manager at Audi Southgate, so I already know how paced Fixed Ops floors communicate, escalate issues, and need clear next steps. At Lumin Marketing Group I own digital delivery for 2 active SMB client accounts: SEO and content QA, GA4 / Google Search Console reporting, website updates, and stakeholder notes that stay practical. Your mix of dealer liaison, program support, SEO, and conversion-minded website work is a strong fit for that combination.

How I would support Western Canada dealer performance:

- Act as a calm liaison for dealers and field partners: clear written updates, training-friendly explanations, and follow-through on enrollments and issues
- Review dealer-facing web content for SEO structure, keyword intent, accuracy, and conversion friction; ship prioritized fixes with plain-language rationale
- Track performance in GA4 / GSC-style analytics and turn results into weekly "what moved and what to try next" notes
- Use Claude and Claude Code to speed research, QA checklists, and draft communications, with human review before anything reaches a dealer

I am honest that Salesforce CRM depth, Adobe Analytics, Mandarin, and deep oADD platform tenure are still growing versus Audi RED's bench; my current book is two SMB accounts plus Audi Fixed Ops floor experience. What transfers is dealer-floor communication, SEO and content discipline, analytics that lead to action, and reliable remote delivery on Western Canada hours. Resume attached. Happy to walk through a sample dealer performance review.

Best regards,

Dylan Michael
