Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Marketing Strategist role at Marble (CAD $75k to $95k posted, remote Canada). At Lumin Marketing Group I own multi-channel shipping for 2 active SMB client accounts: campaigns and content calendars, SEO and WordPress updates, Google Ads / Meta, Go High Level email/SMS nurtures, and GA4 reporting with a clear point of view. Your need for a generalist who turns strategy into shipped work across SettLiT and Medchart matches how I already operate in a lean, AI-forward setup.

How I would support Marble marketing:

- Hold a predictable calendar for campaigns, content, email, and social across two brand voices, and communicate clearly when priorities collide
- Stand up Medchart-style email nurture, content, and web baselines using CRM workflow habits I already run in Go High Level
- Improve site messaging and organic visibility with on-page SEO, conversion-minded updates, and monthly traffic/lead readouts
- Use Claude and Claude Code as a force multiplier on drafts, checklists, and reporting, with human review before anything publishes

I am honest that HubSpot depth, Webflow/Figma/Adobe production fluency, and regulated legal/health B2B SaaS tenure are still growing versus my current two SMB accounts and WordPress/Wix/Shopify stack. What transfers is generalist shipping across SEO, email, paid, content, and web, plus comfort using AI tools without skipping judgment. Resume attached. Happy to complete the Plum survey and walk through a 30-day Medchart traffic and nurture baseline plan.

Best regards,

Dylan Michael
