Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the SEO Specialist role at Webserv (remote Canada, CAD $50k to $70k posted). I live in Edmonton and am looking for a hands-on execution seat: crawls, fixes, on-page work, local SEO, and reporting that Account Managers can put in front of a client without rework. At Lumin Marketing Group I own SEO delivery for 2 active SMB client accounts across keyword research, technical and on-page work, Google Business Profile hygiene, and GA4 / Google Search Console reporting. Your posting's emphasis on Claude and Claude Code matches how I already work: speed research and drafts, then human review before publish.

How I would support Webserv SEO execution:

- Turn crawl and SERP findings into prioritized, plain-language fixes and ship metadata, redirects, internal links, and on-page updates in WordPress
- Keep Google Business Profiles and local citations accurate; QA content for clarity before it publishes
- Validate GA4 / GSC / SEMrush figures before they reach a client-facing note, then draft short "what moved and why" observations
- Use Claude and Claude Code to build repeatable research, QA, and reporting workflows, with human review before publish

I am honest that Screaming Frog depth, behavioral-health YMYL specialty, and a larger multi-AM queue are still growing versus Webserv's bench; my current book is two SMB accounts. What transfers is accurate SEO execution, local SEO discipline, clear written English for non-technical readers, and genuine curiosity about AI tooling. Please confirm base compensation clears CAD $60k. Resume attached. Happy to complete the paid take-home.

Best regards,

Dylan Michael
